

liam singer

the empty heart of the chameleon

“There's a truly stirring emotional sweep to The Empty Heart... I can't think of other musicians occupying the space between pop and classical that Liam Singer does, or at least I can't think of any who do it in such a thrilling way.”

—Dave Heaton, erasing clouds

“At home in any movie containing any sort of miracles, Singer's reputation as an intriguing force in indie music will surely come soon.”

—Darren Susin, cdreviews.com

Liam Singer is a multi-instrumentalist from Portland, Oregon, currently residing in San Francisco. The Empty Heart of the Chameleon is his debut solo album, on which he provides vocals, piano and Theremin. Liam recently completed a national tour with Portland band The Scientifics, featuring material from his new album, and is currently playing shows in and around the Bay Area in preparation for another nationwide tour.

The Empty Heart of the Chameleon is evocative and subtle, interweaving influences of minimalism and classicism with a traditional songwriting ethic. Accessible, yet musically progressive, it weds virtuosity with intimacy and dramaticism with direct sincerity. Though melancholy in subject matter, the record is often described as hopeful, with a refreshingly direct lyrical style.

On The Empty Heart of the Chameleon, Liam Singer has produced a sound that melds a wide range of influence into a relevant, urgent, and cohesive work.

Recommended vocal tracks include #4 (“father i see”) and #10 (“one day”). Suggested instrumental tracks include #9 (“asthma / rivets in water”), #3 (“water rushing at you”), and #5 (“tying shoes / climbing stairs”). “between my lips, which did sing” (#6) is a setting of an ee cummings poem, with vocals by Michelle Brandone. For more information and upcoming tour dates, visit www.tellallrecords.com.

recommended if you like: rachel's, sufjan stevens, max richter, john adams, kranky records, harold budd, philip glass, elliott smith, brian eno, jóhann jóhannsson track listing

recommended tracks in bold

1. -
2. the last
3. water rushing at you
4. father i see
5. tying shoes /
climbing stairs
6. between my lips,
which did sing
7. elegiè
8. when i am laid in earth
9. asthma / rivets in water
10. one day
11. hannah's dance
12. -

contact

dave zohrob, tell-all records (415)-692-0709
dave@tellallrecords.com

tell-all records // 415-692-0709 // www.tellallrecords.com

p.o. box 40298 // san francisco, ca 94110